Covid-19 Update

April 3 - The Coronavirus continues to disrupt business around the world. We feel fortunate that our corporate office employees have remained healthy; they continue to work remotely as the state of Rhode Island ordered us to close down our North Kingstown office 2 weeks ago. In Mexicali, we instituted a full-range of strict precautions within our primary production facility and followed Mexican government directives to identify and release "vulnerable" employees to the safety of their homes. So far our Mexicali employees have remained healthy.

In a new development, the Mexican government announced on Thursday, April 3rd that all non-essential businesses must cease operations by Monday, April 6th. Last week, in anticipation of an impending country-wide manufacturing shutdown, we began working with customers to arrange early shipment of confirmed orders. Today, we are in the process of shutting down production as ordered. If permitted by local authorities, we plan to maintain a small number of employees within the factory to manage incoming materials and ship products that we still have in inventory. Any further production is strictly prohibited at this time, although we are in negotiations with the government for special dispensation. Please check our website for updates.

Like all people around the world, we are doing our best to control the spread of this disease while taking care of our valuable employees and their families. We are also trying to continue to provide the best service possible for our customers. We wish all members of our global community good health and safety.

Warm Regards,
Coto Technology
